Wheeling Wins the Second Game With Two Runs.

A COLD DAY FOR THE BISONS

And the 400 Spectators-Some Ver Good Playing by the Home Team, and the Visitors Only Get

It was a cold day yesterday, and no sine men more fully realized this fact Word comes from all the little towns around that the coming engagement of Minnie Palmer, at the Opera House, still a good ways in the future, is looked forward to with unusual interest. There never was a year when tropical ruits, particularly oranges, were as abundant and as cheap in the Wheeling harket as they are this year, and they are sexceptionally fine as abundant.

Mr. Micharl Lofte, for a number of the property of the clinical structure of the clinical structure. The clinical structure is a sexceptional structure of the clinical structure of the clinical structure of the clinical structure. nine innings the able representatives from this bailiwick shut the Buffalo entirely out. The score was 2 to 0, and their progress was Major Gen-Knauss, the new Wheeling pitcher; is a south paw twirler and Mana Buckenberger confidently expects bill him shortly as a "phenom." Al a ball would leave his good left hand i would describe certain curves and drops calculated to make a batter cross-eyed, and then finally, with a few exceptions, pass over the plate. Only one Bison got his base on balls and only one safe hit was made by the New York aggregation. The Major General was ably assisted by some very alert fielders, whose work on the whole was as sharp and as near perfect as any one could desire. What few balls the Buffalos did hit were either popped up in the air, making easy flys, or else rolled along to some fielder and were gotten to first base in good time. Yaik, behind the bat, did good reliable work. Walsh pitched for Buffalo and Williams caught him. Walsh's support, as a general thing, was good. The story of the game is briefly told in the statement that Wheeling got eleven base hits off Walsh while only one hit was made off Knauss' delivery.

The game was an exciting one all the way through for the reason that the score was so small, and every man on both sides was ready to take advantage

Ruth, for a plain drunk, was fined $1 and costs, which he paid.

The Alleged Glenn Marderers.

Sheriff Handlan and Chief of Police Smith were expected to arrive from Mt. Vernon, Ohio, at 6:45 last evening, with Kelly and Christie, the two men indicted for the murder of Officer Glenn last January. They did not come, and it is understood that the cause of their delay is a legal fight there, the counsel for the two men having attempted to secure their release on a writ of habeas corpus. While this proceeding may delay, it cannot prevent bringing the prisoners here, as the indictment, of which Sheriff Handlan took a copy with him, is conclusive in the matter, and the evidence on which it was found will not be called in question.

PARLOR CONCERT LAST NIGHT,

The parlor concert given last evening at the residence of Dr. John L. Dickey for the benefit of the United Presby terian Sunday School, was a most gratifying success in every way. The programme was opened by a male quartette, consisting of Mr. John M. Waddell, of Pittsburgh, Mr. Harry Sweeney, Dr. John M. McLure, and Mr. Robert B. McClure; they sang "The Mill Wheel." Miss Flora Williams, the Mill Wheel." Miss Flora Williams, the popular little prima donna, sang in her usual finished style "The Cuckoo Song" and, as usual, was warmly received. Miss Mary Hamilton recited "The Garrett" in a manner that won applause. Mr. Waddell sang "Darkest the Hour," and in response to loud calls for an encore sang a charming Spanish serenade. Miss Sara Roemer pleased her hearers with her solo, the familiar "Kerry Dance," Dr. McCluro played "The Lost Chord" as a cornet solo in good style. Miss Annie Thoburn recited "The New Church Organ," which, having something of a local reference and application, was well received; Miss Thoburn

Miss Lida Irwin made a good impression with her solo "Rhymes and Roses," and as an encore sang "Janet's Story;" her voice is a very sweet and pleasing one. Miss Grace Kelly, of Barnesville, an accomplished pianist who has been heard here before, increased the high regard in which she is held by her playin of Mendelssohn's rondo capriccioso ing E major; Miss Kelly gave an encore in response to a general demand. Miss Williams closed the programme; she sang "The Flower of the Alps" and as an encore "The Three Maids of Lea." Miss Kelly and Miss Sara Sweeny as accompanists rendered efficient aid. About 125 persons were present.

THE ARION CONCERT AND BALL House Last Night.

The Arion Society gave a grand con-cert and ball at its club house last even ing that was the finale of its programme of festivities arranged for and carried out during the winter season of 1887-'88. Like all the entertainments given by the Arion it was a big success, highly creditable to the Society and particularly to the gentlemen composing the committee that had the affair in charge. The at-

The programme opened with an overture by the full Operation of the charman singing section sang three choruses in splendid style under the leadership of their accomplished director, H. M. Schockey. The last chorus, a flue composition by Machung, was given with orchestral accompaniment. The orchestra, in addition to the overture, was heard with pleasure in another selection, "The Gypsy Baron." by Strauss, and the stringed quartette rendered a charming number. A violin and piano duet by those accomplished artists, Professor Schockey and Professor Joseph Keller, was a delightful number and was loudly applauded. The audience was almost imperative in its demand for an encore, but the rule was "no encores allowed" and it was rigidly adhered to. Miss Emma Lang gave one of her charming harp soloes, a selection from Martha, with exquisite expression. Frof. Keller called forth enthusiastic applause by his piano solo. Mrs. Otto Jacger sang "I'll Await My Sallor Lad," and Mr. Frank Diegmiller sang "Good Night, My Child."

It seemed to be the universal sentiment that the concert celipsed anything of the kind ever given by the Society. The dance that followed was participated in by young and old. The full orchestra furnised the music.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Wheeling Soan Company was held yes-terday morning. It having been de-cided to issue 100 additional shares of stock these were eagerly taken. Out on $500 Ball.

Lewis Hartman, the man arrested night before last on the charge of felonious assault on Miss Adrianna J. Reynolds, the girl who gave birth to a child at the hospital recently, was yesterday released by Squire Davis, who committed him, on $500 bail for his appearance April 20 for a preliminary examination. Dr. Ford became his bondsman. The charge on which he is held is that of assault and battery, and it is understood the more battery, and it is understood the more serious one is to be settled between him and the wronged girl on terms satisfac-tory to both. The girl is at her home in Washington county, Ohio. The LaBelle Glassworks Failure.

About twelve years ago John fell in ove with Miss Maggie, a daughter of Mr.

J. Shamehorn, a resident of Portiand, and gained her consent to marry him. The lady's parents, who were wealthy, on different occasions objected so strenuously to the match that John and the bride concluded to act clandestinely in the matter. The girl in her eagerness to marry him borrowed several articles of wearing apparel from John's sister, and the couple, under cover of the night, drove to a neighboring town and were married.

In a short time after their honeymoon ohn resumed his old habits, and would John resumed his old habits, and would get beastly drunk and train himself for the prize ring at the expense of his wife, who stood his cruelty for some years, and then decided to leave him. Her father would not allow his wounded pride to lead so soon, and forbade the wofnan to some home. She then went back to her husband, who daily came and piteously pleaded to be allowed to return to his Steubenville court.

John knew this, and Wednesday night filled himself full of whisky and started down the track home. He sat down on the rails, fell over and went to sleep. The engineer says he noticed the man lying with one foot on each side of the rail and his body squarely on top of the rail. It was too late to stop and the pilot hit the man and in some manner swept him aside and over the bank. A number of ribs were broken and injuries sustained internally, of which it is thought the man will die.
